CASA PICASSO

The new Museo Picasso in Málaga, Spain, represents a homecoming for the artist. Not only does it fulfill his wish to open a hometown gallery, but most of the art is from the collections of his daughter-in-law and her son. The works span Picasso's career, from the realism of his youth to Cubism and beyond. $10, Calle San Agustín 8, 011-34/902-44-33-77, www.museopicasso.malaga.org.

How to Test-Drive a Segway

We'd all like to take a spin on a Segway, but who wants to drop $4,000 to buy one? The latest trend in city tours gives travelers a chance to test-drive these space-age scooters while sightseeing. For $22 to $50 per hour, you can buzz about Bangkok or whiz around Waikiki. There are even tours of such prosaic places as Sarasota and Spokane. "People really want to try a Segway," says Bill Neuenschwander, president of Mobile Entertainment in the Twin Cities. "I put a person on it, and within 15 seconds I get a grin." If you don't want a tour, you can rent a Segway on your own, for $35 to $50 an hour, at tour operators or rental outfits in cities from Anchorage to Auckland. —Reid Bramblett
